Koala Baby Changing Station

Pleases Parents and Protects Children

Horizontal Design Station Provides The Perfect Fit for Tight Places With more than 100,000 stations installed worldwide and a flawless safety record, Koala Bear Kare Baby Changing Stations have proven to delight parents and protect children. In response to popular demand, we created the horizontal design station for areas with narrow passageways. Choose the station which best fits your space constraints and you'll please adults with and without children. Both the horizontal and vertical design baby changing stations can be installed to comply with ADA regulations to safeguard the rights of people with disabilities. Engineered For Strength, Built To Last Horizontal design extends no more than 4 inches from wall when closed. Every unit is reinforced with steel-on-steel hinges and 10 gauge steel mounting supports which puts steel up against the mounting surface instead of plastic like other models. Changing platform rests at a slightly upward angle, so that even when the weight of the child is added, the platform will not descend past the horizontal plane. Can withstand heavy static loads and operate safely for years to come, up to 250 pounds or 113 kilos. Gas shock mechanism first lifts door from open position, then brakes its closing motion to prevent the trapping of fingers. Optional factory installed lock secures station from vandalism
